EARLY PROTESTANT MISSIGNARY WORK.

The Powerful Opposition to It, and the couraging Conditions Under Which It Was Begun. .

When Carey, the father of Protestant missions in Bengal, propounded at the meeting of Baptist ministers a century ago the duty of preaching the Gospel to "the heathen," the aged President is said to have sprung up in displeasure and should design the said to have sprung up in displeasure and should design.

"Young man, sit down. When God pleases to convert the heathen He will do it without your aid or mine."

A second Pentecost, he thought, must precede such a work.

To another pions Nonconformist divino the proposal suggested the thought, "If the Lord would make windows in heaven

the Lord would make windows in heaven might this thing be."

Ministers of the Kirk of Scotland, which has since labored so nobly for the education of India, pronounced the idea to be "highly preposterous," and extolled the simple virtues of the untutored savage. A Bishop of the Church of England, the church whose missionaries now compass the earth, argued publicly and powerfully in opposition to such schemes. The British nation, as represented in Parliament, declared against them. Its servants in the East regarded the missionaries as dangerous breakers of the law. But for the benevolence of a Hinda money-changer the first missionary famy-changer the first missionary fam-Bengal would have been without a roof. But for the courage of a petty Danish Governor the next missionary party would have been seized by our authorities in Calcutta and shipped back

A hundred years ago the sense of the churches, the policy of Parliament, the instinct of self-preservation among the Englishmen who were doing England's work in distant lands, were all arrayed against the missionary idea.

The missionaries had to encounter not less hostile, and certainly better founded, prejudices among the non-Christian peoples to whom they went. For until a century ago the white man had brought to blessing to the darker pations of the no blessing to the darker nations of the earth. During 300 years he had been the despoiler, the enslaver, the exterminator of the simpler races.

The bright and brief episode in Pensylvania stands out against a grim backsylvania stands out against a grim back-ground of oppression and wrong. In America, ancient kingdoms and civiliza-tions had been trodden out beneath the hoofs of the Spanish horse. In Africa the white man had organized a great export trade in human flesh. In South Asia, cities had been sacked, districts devastuted by the Portuguese. Throughout the Eastern Ocean, the best of the nations of Europe appeared as rapacious traders, the worst of them as pirates and buccaneers. In India, which was destined to be the chief field of missionary labor, the power had passed to the English without the sense of responsibility for using their power aright.

During a whole generation the natives had learned to regard us as a people whose arms it was impossible to resist and to whose mercy it was useless to appeal. Even the retired slave trader of Bristol looked askance at the retired nabob from Bengal.-Nineteenth Cen-

AN INGENIOUS INVENTION.

How To Produce Vapors and Gases for Medical and Sanitary Purposes. **

The English papers describe an ingenious invention for producing vapors and gases for medical and sanitary purposes.

A very pure carbon combined with an oxidizing agent is molded into a hollow cone, the walls of which are part for part equal, the size varying with the use, and the central cavity fitted with a glass flask containing the matter to be dispersed, eilher in vapor or as a gas; the carbon cone and flask are secured on an incom-bustible base.

Being placed in a room to be disinfected rized, the cone is lighted at the or deodo apex and burns slowly and steadily downward, and as the carbon encasement is heat to be obtained, the result of this steady progression of heating is that the neck of the flask is the first to become intensely elevated in temperature, the heat slowly reaching the inner contained prin-ciple; the layer of the contained sub-stance first affected by the heated glass is at once raised into a state of vapor, which is propelled with great force along the super-heated tubulure of the flask and eventually escapes into the air in the form of a high visible column.

Thus, with these cones, a volume of vapor or gas may be produced of any magnitude, from a few cubic inches to many thousand cubic feet.

The following platform and re-olutions were adopted by the Re-publican State Convention, which convened at Winnemucca on the 15th instant:

The Republicans of the State of Nevada, in Convention assembled, again express their loyalty to the principles of the Republican party, which have made this country so great and prosperous during the last quarter of a century. RESOLVED, That the question of a suncient upply of circulating medium to maintain a permanent range of the price of labor and property is the most important political question awaiting solution by the American people.

reduces the price of labor and property enriches the creditor, impovertables the debtor, and paralyzes industry and enterprise.

That the present financial system of the United States, which increases or diminishes the circulating medium at the pleasure of the manipulators of the national barks, without regard to the increase of population or the wants of the people, and which recognizes gold alone as the standard of value, and places in the hands of the Treasury Department all the revenue of the Government to speculate with in bends and loan to the national banks without interest, is subservive of the rights of the people, oppressive, unjust and should be repudiated. That a financial policy whereby both gold and silver shall form the basis of 'irculation, whether the money used by the people be coin, or coin certificates rednemable in coin, or both, as convenience may require, is imperatively demanded.

That the atten pt to substitute national bank notes, coating the Government millions of dollars annually, for free silver, coating nothing, is an outrage up retereople; that the money ring or trust, which has usurped the sovereign power of the Government to issue money, and which higher than the attent of the covernment for private speculation, shocks the moral sense of the geople and destroys respect for gove naneat and law. We demand that the ring or trust be destroyed, and equal rights he restored to all the people.

We charge that President Cleveland is the willing tool or agent of a powerful money ring, which fattens on the subsidies of the Government, makes war on affiver lasures is paper currency at the expense of the Government, borrows the revenues relies but a statement to pay men of luterest contracts the same relies of labor and property.

That we havor the nomination of no man por President who is personally interested usurers, while it depresses the price of labor and property.

That we favor the nomination of no manjor President who is personally interested in national banks or the honded indebtedness of the United States, but we demand a candidate who is free to do justice to all the people of the country—the peor as well as the rich.

That the trick of the President and his advisers by which they prevented a vote in the House of Representatives on the Beck allver amendment to the Bond Purchase bill, equals the villainy of the secret and fraudulent demonstration of silver in 1875.

RESOLVED. That we are in favor of protection of home industry, and that isborers of this country laves right the work required to supply the peop the United States, and that we are in of high wages, and to that end will protect wages workers from competition the cheap labor of other lands.

RESOLVED. That the policy of the comments hough is improved.

NOTICE.

Readers of the Evening GAZETTE going out of town for the summer, car have the paper mailed to them to am point on the Pacific Coast for 50 centper month, postage free.

In announcing myself as pub lisher of the GAZETTE I realize the great responsibility I assume, and appreciate the claim the public has upon anyone who adopts the profession of journalism. A newspaper should be devoted to the matters which are of interest to the people it reaches, in proportion to their importance. Events ocburing near by are far more weighty than others of much greater moment to the world at large occuring at a distance. If the local paper does not describe them no one else will, or not so well at least. Hence, while a paper should not by any means ignore the great events of the world, its chief field and best opportunity must be in home affairs. The GAZETTE has always had an intense local flavor and since its birth has been constantly giving original information concerning its section to the world. I modestly hope that my residence from boyhood in Western Nevada and my four years' experience in news gathering, will do much towards enabling me to maintain juncture of the national history this desirable feature. Certainly with the aid of our veteran friend, J. J. Linn, who will be associated with me editorially, Nevada's interest will not suffer. In addition the paper will contain as much general news as its support will warrant It will use its influence constantly to clevate the morals and intelligence of all it reaches, by | cratic endeavors spreading the doctrine of true re-ligion and sound Republicanism. other distinguished speakers. The crowd from the very outset inauglasted the meeting itself. The decorations of the grand stand and other platforms were on a scale of grand profusion, and streamers were stretched in every direction. The escutcheons of the various States were planted at intervening points along posts, and in the midst of these were huge portraits of Harrison and Morton.

The main platform, from which the speakers addressed the meeting, faced Grand street. On this sat the invited guests of the evening. Half a dozen bands played national airs during the evening. Stereopearing on free trade and protec-

President Humphrey of the Hartem Club, welcomed the people from the main stand, while others were performing the same office and introducing speakers at the other stands about the grounds. He introduced Hon. J. B. Foraker, who addressed the people. Before he had finished there were cries of "Blaine! Here comes Blaine!"— and when that gentleman appeared on the platform a scene of inde-scribable enthusiasm followed. Cannon were fired, rockets burst in the air, the bands struck up "Hail to the Chief," and deafening heers rent the air.

The Chairman then introduced Blaine. He began his address by commending General Harrison's "remarkable ability in condensing a whole argument within the di-mensions of a proverb." The same had been true of Franklin and of Lincoln. General Harrison's reference to the dogmatic free trade narkets" had exposed in a sentence the fallacy of their economic creed. Blaine then went into hiseffect of each upon the countrythe various tariff measures, from the first in 1789 down to the issues of 1844 between Clay and Polk, af-J. County Commissioners.

The Commissioners met this morning as a Board of Equalization and finished up the business under that head. In the case of O. Lonkey, whose property was recently destroyed by the Verdi fire, the Board reduced the assessed value of his Verdi property from $16,770 to $4,395.

The property of J. E. Souchereau, also a sufferer by the fire, from $590 to $440.

The property of the Continental Oil Company, a small building near the lumber yard, was reduced from $300.40 The Verdi Town Hall, destroyed by fire, was stricken from the roll.

B. F. Leete appeared before the Board and asked a reduction of $1,500 Board and asked a reduction of $1,500 on personal property, claiming that a mortgage for $5,000 upon this statement there was but $3,500 due at the time the statement was filed, and that the other $1,500 should be assessed to Mrs. Julia D. Lee, who held the mortgage, and to whom the $1,500 had been paid. The application was decided to have come too late and the Board refused to grant the reduction.

Attention is called to the advertise ment in to-day's GAZETTE of W. O. H. Martin, the leading Reno grocer. Mr. Martin has established a business repufation in this community which has given him the confidence of all able to appreciate a square deal.

"lge Cannot Wither Her," lemarked an old gentleman, as he guzed fondly upon the comely little woman by his side; "but frankly," he continued; "at one time I was afraid cosmetics would." The silly little woman, in order to appear youthful, plastered her face with different varieties of whitewash, yelept "balma," "creams," "lotions," etc. "Yes," interrupted the little woman, "I did until my skin became like parchment, and so pimply and coarse." "Well," said the listner, "what do you use now?" "Use," was the reply, "nothing but common sense and Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. Common sense told me if my blood was pure, liver regulated, appetite good, that the outward woman would take on the hue of health. tle Union Chapel was the scene of a evening, the 26th inst., in which the most interested parties were Mr. Charles H. Kamm, formerly of Chinghter of William Nicholls, one of Washoe's pioneers and the proprietor of the Wadsworth Hotel. The list of guests bidden to the wedding included a wide circle of friends from every part of the county, as the groom is a very popular young man who has made host of friends during his stay here, and his beautiful young bride, who was born in Wadsworth and raised in our midst, is a general favorite on account of her many estimable qualities. The church had been charmingly garnished with a splendid variety of choice ferns and delicate blossoms very tastefully arranged. The bridal party entered the church at about 8 o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Frank Elliott, The bride and groom ad-

Efflott. The bride and groom advanced to the pulpit, where Rev. J. W. Henry awaited them, surrounded by the beautiful floral decorations. They were preceded by little Bessie Whited of Wadsworth, and little Sadie Phillips of Reno, and accompanied by the bride's sister, Miss Lillie Nichols, and Miss Laura Angus, who acted as bridesmaids, and Mr. Thomas Clarke and Mr Michael Martin, who acted as groomsmen. After the beautiful and impressive ceremony that had made Miss Nichols Mrs. Kamm, the couple were driven to the spacious parlors of Miss Nichols Mrs. Kamm, the couple were driven to the spacious parlors of the Wadsworth notel, where they received the warm congratulations of their friends. The wedding supper, consisting of the choicest edibles and drinkables, was served in the dining room, and this scribe being called upon for a toast offered the following:

I saw two clouds in the morning,
Tinged by the rising sun,
And in the dawn they floated on
And mingled into one.
I thought that morning cloud was blest,
It moved so sweetly to the west.

I saw two summer currents
Flow smoothly to their meeting,
And join their course with silent force,
In peace each other greeting;
Ca'm was their course through bank of gree
While dimpling eddies played between.

Such be your gentle motion, Till life's last pulse shall beat; Like summer's beam and summer's stre Float on in joy to meet; A boundless prosperity, a numerous pro-ity.

The two little girls, who were the bride's avant courters, wore dresses of creamy lace bedecked with flowers of creamy lace bedecked with nowers and looked so sweet we thought they had just dropped in from fairyland. They carried large baskets of fragrant roses which they distributed in the pathway of the bride. Messrs. C. D. Knopp and G. C. Culver, Wadsworth's handsomest men, made most efficient usbers.

A Hard Jolt.

John Snodgrass met with a rather serious accident Saturday afternoon a his ranch south of town. In attempting to cross a board fence the top rail gave away and he fell to the ground, striking squarely on his back, and was rendered speechless for nearly an hour. He was not able to stand on his feet yesterday, but was suffering but little pain, and it is thought that no serious results will follow.

A New York Crowd Sees the Pins Knight in a Local Politician—The Man Who Is Taken for ex-Senator Dorsey— Jay Gould Strikingly Like Somebody Who Isn't Half as Rich as He - Amusing Mistakes Founded on Facial Likeness. (Copyright 1888.)

A short time ago I began to give attention to the matter, and I have about concluded that every man has a double. The persons who look alike may have such a long distance between them that they never come in contact with each other. If a man was to search the country over he would certainly find the fellow who looke! I'ke him. Most likely he could accomplish this simply by taking up a real lence in New York. I have frequently made mistakes as I think every one else living here who has a general acquaintance all over the country has done, in identifying persons. That is the reason New Yorkers have the habit of waifing to be spoken to first. Hardly a month passes that I do not see on Broadwaysome one whom I think I have known in some other part of the country. in some other part of the country.

When they had the Republican parade here a short time since in honor of James G. Bluine's return, Col. William F. Scha-fer, the well-known New York politician, fer, the well-known New York politician, was mistaken for the Plumed Knight. As will be remembered, Mr. Blaine did not reach here until the morning after the parade, although he had been expected for two days. As the parade passed the reviewing stand at Madison Square, those in it noticed Col. Schafer occurring one of the most conspicuous positions on the stand. The crowd thought it was the man from Maine and cheer after cheer went up, and Mr. Blaine's double had to retire.

Col. J. S. Clarkson, the clever gentleman who re resents lows on the National man who recressents lows on the National Republican Committee, has a double in the person of ex-Congressman J. Hale-Sypher, of Louisiana. Col. Clarkson has charge of the oratorial bureau attached to the National Committee, and as such he is greatly sought after by persons who are seeking employment as campaign or-ators. Ex-Congressman Sypher, who is ators. Ex-Cougressman Sypher, who is of a very convivial disposition, spends considerable time here and is frequently mistaken for Coll Clarkson by these aspiring orators. The other day one of them tackled Sypher and they apent an hour together. Sypher told the fellow to call next day at headquarters. He did so and of course asked, for the Iowa statesman. He was shown to Coll Clarkson's room and naturally he was treated as a stranger. The man mentioned the conversation he had upon the previous afternoon and Coll Clarkson had no little difficulty in convincing his visitor that there was a mistake.

Ex Senator Stephen W. Dorsey, who now practically makes New York his home, is almost the image of Judge Maurice J. Powers, the leader of the County Democracy. It is almost a daily occurrence for some Democratic politician to accest Senator Dorsey and report the condition of affairs in his ward. If Dorsey was still in active politics he might make use of his resemblance to Judge Powers to advantage in discovering Democratic secrets. On the other hand, Judge Powers is approached by strangers who open a conversation with him about some of the schemes that Dorsey is inter-

Congressman Amos J. Gammings and Senator John D. Jacobs, who came near being nominated by the Democrats for Geyernor a few years ago, look so much alike that their friends can hardly tell them spart. The night of the Democratic caucus just previous to the assembling of the present Congress, Congress. man William L. Scott pointed Cummin's out to the sergeant at arms. "That is State Senator Jacobs of New York," said the Pennsylvania statesman, "and he probably don't know that only Democratic members of Congress can be present. You had better give him the hint,"
Mr. Scott refused to believe that Cumings was not Jacobs until several of the New York Congressmen assured him of Jay Gould has a double in the person of Jay Gould has a double in the person of R. J. Frazier, a prominent business man of Memphis. Mr. Frazier frequently comes to New York and he always is taken for Mr. Gould. When he was here some time ago a railroad manager methim at one of the hotels and taiked with him for half an hour before he discovered that it was not the millionaire. About a year ago Mr. Gould passed through Memphis in his palace car. While it stopped at the depot in the Tennessee metropolis, a citizen of the place noticed Mr. Gould looking out of the car window. Supposing it was Mr. Frazier the man walked over to the car and asked Mr. Gould how over to the car and asked Mr. Gould how his folk were. Mr. Gould supposing that this was but a sample of southern hos-pitality, replied pleasantly they were well. Just then some one addressed Mr.

well. Just then some one addressed Mr. Gould, calling him by name, and the man standing by the car window discovered he had been mistaken and apologized.

Col. Zeb Ward, the famous Southerner who has been warden of nearly every penitentiary in the South, was frequently taken for General Grant. The resemblance between them was quite striking. taken for General Grant. The resemblance between them was quite striking. About ten years ago Gen. Grant visited Little Rock, where Col. Ward lives. The General received a big reception and people went there from hundreds of miles around to see him. It was arranged that the General should stand in the corridor of the State House and shake hands with the people as they passed through. The General had been some a good deal of hand-shaking for several days, and it did not take long for his arm to give out. He complained of his transle and Col. Ward bearing it, said:

"General, just swop coats and hats

"General, just swop coats and hats with me and I'll take your place and these people will never know the difference."

The General did so and Col. Zeb took his place. Col. Zeb has the grip of iron and he made many a fellow jump up and down while he shook his hand. Col. Zeb, who is a native Kentuckian, gave them the genuine grip of his State. In consequence the people agreed that Gen. Grant was the best hand-shaker they had the part of the consequence the people agreed that Gen. Grant was the best hand-shaker they had ever met. Col. Ward was getting along splendidly in his impersonation of the "Old Commander," and had nearly completed the job when a big strapping negro slepped up and profered his hand. As he did so he recognized Col. Ward. The rerro had served a term in the penitentary while the Colonel was warden of it. "Yese can't fools dis chide. Naw yese can't Kernil Zilb. and Adam Forepaugh, the circus man. Mr. Depew laughingly said at the time that the lithographs of himself which were everywhere about Chicago at the time of the Republican convention, had not cost him a cent. He had simply borrowed them from Mr. Forepaugh.

Col. Thomas P. Ochiltree has a counterpart in the person of a man who keeps a drug store at a New Jersey summer recently, and he went down to see him the other day. Capt. William M. Connor, the well-known horseman and the proprietor of the St. James Hotel, has a clerk who looks very much like him, and not a day passes that mistakes do not occur. The eldest son of Studebaker, the millionaire wagon manufacturer, has a double in George Floyd, the well-known theatrical manager. It is a frequent thing for persons to accost Mr. Studebaker and ask him for theatre tickets and to stop Mr. Floyd and open up a conversation with him about the wagon business.

Col. James T. Sparkman, the wall-

Col. James T. Sparkman, the well-known clubman and politician, has people come to him nearly every day who want to read plays to him, or actors who want positions. They think he is A. M. Palmer, the theatrical manager. John Crabtree, Lottie's brother and manager, looks so like hardsome Ambrose J. Butler, the publisher of the Buffalo News, that their sweethearts cannot tell themanart. A few weeks ago a pretty sou apart. A few weeks ago a pretty sou-brette actress met Mr. Butler in Cleve-land and in a very unceremonious man ner began to shake his hand and tell him how glad she was to see him.

how glad she was to see him.
"I have not seen you since I met you in Minneapolis," she said to him.
The actress was exceedingly pretty, and although Mr. Butler was sure she had not seen him in Minneapolis, for he had never been there, he did not deny her assertion, and at the lady's solicitation sertion, and at the stay's solicitation called for her at the stage door that evening. As they were about to part the setress asked Mr. Butler if his sister was going to play in Cleveland soon. He said he had no sister, and the thoughtless answer deprived him of any further acquaintance with the lady, as she then discovered her mistake.

overed her mistake. Ex Consul-General Kahlo, who ably represented the interests of this country in Australia for several years, and who is the political protege of General Harrison, resembles Frank Brooks, the Chicago journalist, as much as one black pea does another. They are exactly the same height, the same colored hair and eyes, weigh the same and have the same captivating smile. Actually, if they got mixed they could not tell each other

I made Mr. Kahlo's exceedingly pleas-I made Mr. Kahlo's exceedingly pleas-ant acquaintance here a few years ago by going up and shaking hands with him, supposing he was my old friend Brooks. Mr. Kahlo seemed to be very glad to see me, and we took dinner together. In the meantime he had learned my name, and while we were sipping our coffee he said billions.

"You never saw me before in your Then he told me who he was, but, until he proved it, I would not believe him. He told me that he had reason to know considerable about his double, Frank

Years ago, when under Wilbur F. Storey, the Chicago Times was a very sensational paper, and when a man was required to be a puglist to serve acceptably upon its staff, Frank Brooks was the police reporter of the paper. Naturally, then, he made enemies among the rowdy element of the town, whose ruffianism he element of the town, whose ruffianism he fearlessly exposed. It was not strange that npon a visit to Chicago Mr. Kahlo came near losing his life. He was walking along State street late one night when a big fellow, with a face like a bulldog, grabbed hold of him.

"You are the — what rit that thing in the Times about me. It's a — lie, and I am going to smash your nose all over your face."

over your face."

Poor Kahlo struggled and protested his innocence, but several other toughs who gathered around said he was guilty. In vain dul Mr. Kahlo plead that he never wrote an article for a Lewspaper in his life. This only made the man hold him tighter and grind his teeth the more. He hauled Kahle into a dive, and no telling what would have become of him but for the timely appearance of a policeman.

Gen. A. L. Pierson, a leading politician of Pittsburg and ex-District Attorney of that city, used to be taken for Gen. Sheridan. A few months ago two Chicago gentlemen met Gen. Pierson at the Hoffman House here and insisted that he accompany them to their room. He knew accompany them to their room. He knew them well by reputation and accepted their invitation. They entertained him like a prince, and gave him to understand that they thought nothing in this world was too good for him. Whether they thought this after they found out it was not Gen. Sheridan they were entertaining

Several years ago there was a patent medicine vendor in Missouri who fre-quently passed for Senator Vest. On one occasion a reporter got hold of him and talked to him for two hours, and then went off and wrote a two-column article, putting the words in Schator Vest's mouth. HARRY WALKER.

OUR FINANCIAL PROGRESS.

The Drift of Wealth towards This Country.

The other day I met a gentleman whe han authority on a subject of peculiar interest. "You see how many foreigners," he said, "are coming over here every year to marry our young American helresses. You hear of American millionaires buying the antique and historic furniture and decorations of Europe. You see men of wealth living here in New York in a style that few of the nobility of Europe can emulate. What does it mean? It means that the drift of wealth is towards this country. It means that the star not only of political empire but of financial power Westward takes its way.

in Ireland, in England, and on the Con

In Ireland, in England, and on the Continent the nobility are going to the wall. The feudal system was like a great comet; it disappeared centuries ago, but its luminous trail has stretched across the intervening epochs to the present time, and even this is now dying out.

A well-known million aire recently paid more than four hundred thousand dollars for the interior decorations of his New York palace, with its inlaid woods, mosaic works, carved woods of every deacription, ceillings of painted capvas and a hundred other items of luxurious ornamentation which would have a tonished a Doge of Venice or a Lorenzo de Ardie.

"I'll take your caramels and gum drops, Mr. Peduncle," said Willie, candidly, as he rocketed the confectionery given to him by the young man, "but I'll tell you right now that Irene isn't at home and isn't going to be, either, unless Mr. Hankinson comes. She told the girl so herself five minutes are. I heard her."

A Wonderful Record

UR business is now so great that if located in New York, Chicago or Philadelphia, and allowing for the difference in popu-lation, it would be from three to five times larger than any of the largest stores in those cities. This is a wonderful record approached by no other store on the Coast and probably not by any in the country. It shows on its face that the business must and does present advantages of a most unusual sort. In a word or two, we wish to point out that this success is due to our goods, prices and service.

AS TO SUPERIORITY OF OUR GOODS. Our Catalogue (which we send free to any address) in itself is one proof. A glance through its pages, will show that we are handling the goods of the best manufacturers in this country and Europe. For many of these makers we are agents. It pays the leading manufacturers to give us the proference because we have the largest outlet for their goods on the Coast. We think the beautiful illustrations in the book will also show that in that other important quality-style-our goods are second to none in the country. We have many buyers, and get novelties and new fashions as fast as they appear in the markets of the world.

AS TO LOW PRICES. The size of our trade is proof of the leading position we shold on this point. It is a sort of public verdict. If our goods were not better and prices lower than those of other dealers, we should not have long the largest general retail trade on the Coast. People look to us for low prices, and we cannot afford to disappoint then.

AS TO SERVICE. Our business is splen didly organized with trained and skillful people in all the leading positions. Through a system of profit-sharing, their interests are identical with those of the business. Customers see the effects of this plan in the spirit of enthusiasm and willingness with which everything is done, as well as in the attention paid their slightest wants.

THE EVER-PRESENT QUESTION. "How can we better serve our customers?" is an ever-present question with us. It keeps us constantly busy studying, devising, experimenting. It allows of no standstill. Month by month, year by year, the business is becoming more and more perfect. We take great pride in having all its countless transactions run smoothly and satisfactorily.
